While the United States fights terror thousands of miles away from its homeland, distant foes have been stealthily teaming up in Latin America with “socialist” governments and Transnational Organized Crime, with all but benign intentions. This sinister coalition, whose main purpose is to defy the U.S. from its backyard, is deeply involved in drug trafficking and crime, and has entered into shady deals, including the search for uranium and the exchange of nuclear technology. The Islamic Republic of Iran and Islamic extremist groups such as Hezbollah and Al Qaeda have profusely penetrated Latin America, while Illicit trafficking networks have associated with global terrorism networks in Africa and the Middle East. Today, FARC’s cocaine flows unremittingly into a growing European consumer market through the “Africa Connection”, stimulating the advance of the Narco-Jihad in Africa’s Sahel region. Watch Your Backyard focuses on the most alarming upshot of these sinister alliances, one that is already simmering in the U.S. backyard, i.e. the nuclear threat. Based on the book El Plan Maestro (The Master Plan), it describes an ominous international plot against the U.S. that has been underway for more than decade, which includes implanting nuclear capabilities on Latin American soil in order to level the playing field with the United States of America. Watch Your Backyard’s main goal is that of cautioning the American people and European nations with respect to a subdued, albeit harrowing threat, which too few recognize and far too many underestimate.
