Siria lleva desde el 6 de marzo de 2011 inmersa en una contienda interna pero el 21 de agosto de 2013, el régimen sirio dio un paso más en la barbarie, atacando con gas sarín un suburbio de Ghouta al este de Damasco. La prueba de que ha empleado armas químicas contra la población civil deja poco margen de maniobra a la comunidad internacional. El 14 de septiembre de 2013, el Secretario General de las Naciones Unidas, Ban Ki-moon, comunica haber recibido de la República Árabe Siria su solicitud de adhesión a la Convención sobre las Armas Químicas, para evitar una intervención militar. El caso de Siria es la primera vez que la comunidad internacional se enfrenta a un Estado parte que ha incumplido con sus obligaciones y con una clara violación de la Convención de Armas Químicas y de la Resolución 2118 (2013) del Consejo de Seguridad de las Naciones Unidas.
