" ... I think your title is quite provocative, but in a good way. It will generate an interest in your book and persons will be drawn to it because of the title. Many persons feel this way and will [w]ant to read your book in order to answer their own questions. ... In the manuscript you recount what the "stupid" things are and you provide thorough and truthful answers. ... The style of the book is dialogical. In this you are in great company with other great philosophers (Plato) and theologians (Luther and Calvin). ... As far as the biblical interpretation and hermeneutics I think you are on solid ground. ... In a very clever way you have incorporated astute theological reflections in a folksy, everyday manner." -Homer U. Ashby, Jr., Ph.D., Professor Emeritus of Pastoral Care, McCormick Theological Seminary Through the process of "The Sanctified Imagination", the reader will follow Al and his wife, Dot, as they interview outstanding (and sometimes overlooked), biblical servants of God, both men and women. Afterwards, dress lightly as you experience an enlightening ride with Jesus on a warm Chicago summer day. Finally, bring your sunglasses as you sit in a television studio audience in Bethlehem, while Dot and Al interview GOD ... it will be exhilarating and eye opening! ALBERT A. WARREN, JR. is a devout Christian, entrepreneur, pastoral consultant, biblical counselor, teacher, ordained minister, theologian, chaplain, speechwriter, and author, who has witnessed transformed lives when individuals make a commitment to knowing God through the Holy Scriptures. Albert lives in the Midwest and enjoys spending time with his family.
