He reached for the stars and touched her heart...and a whole lot more.

The Department of Homeworld Security, Book 2

Kira excels in her role as a planetary observer, but two years is a long time to be alone on the listening station orbiting Earth. In a moment of weakness, she answers one of the many voices reaching for deep space.

Brendan Sloan never thought he'd get a response to his transmissions. He suspects Kira is simply a government lackey keeping an eye on him between his top-secret communications projects. Still, her sultry voice is a geeky dream come true.

He's stunned when an escape pod lands in his back yard, even more so when the alien who emerges removes her helmet and opens her luscious lips to speak. He knows that voice. It's Kira, and she's had to destroy her station to keep it out of enemy hands.

Their meeting of the minds—and of the flesh—is beyond anything they ever dreamed. But when they discover what the Tau Ceti are really after, they may not have a nanite's chance in hell of saving Earth, much less their love.

Warning: Contains a hot geeky billionaire, an alien just learning what she can do with her lady parts, and vampire space frogs. Yeah, you heard me.
